JACQUELINE MOORE

All around the world, there is evidence that we are experiencing a crisis of conscience, of character, and of civility. In response to high demand from community leaders and grassroots civility and change organizations from all over the world, Propriety Publishing is pleased to announce the release of THE FACE OF CIVILITY. It is a compilation book where a collective of experts in their fields share their stories of civility.

Jacqueline Moore, author, speaker and civility and human potential educator, believes that, “Kindness is the heart of Civility. It is the expression of an urging in our hearts to be present, and to help another, or others.” Moore currently serves as president of the board of the Civility Center and as a director on the board of Goodwill Manasota. Passionate about community, Moore supports local and global organizations focused on literacy, nutrition, housing, and skill-building for modern times, all of which are key aspects of personal dignity and empowerment. A candidate for Master Civility Trainer status through International Civility Trainers’ Consortium, Moore holds a Bachelor of Sciences degree from the University of Metaphysical Sciences, Arcata, CA. She says, “Civility is a healing force in the world of mental health.” She writes about death by suicide and how it is associated with weakness, disgrace and shame. This uncompassionate view represents a stigma that expands the suffering of those left behind and diminishes the legacy of those who die by suicide. In this chapter you will learn:

- Details about the stigma of suicide.
- The story of a woman who has devoted her life to eliminating the stigma associated with death by suicide because of her grandfather's death by his own hand.
- How you can exercise civility and compassion related to suicide.

More About the Book:

The Face of Civility books are a series of collaborations by change-makers around the globe. The books are part of The Golden Rule Civility Initiative co-created by Canadian, Dr. Lew Bayer, and American, Dr. Clyde Rivers. He says, "There are over seven billion people in the world, and they have to communicate effectively daily to move society forward in a positive way. The chaos we experience every day from our media outlets and the social media machinery, is wearing away our character and we need to find our way back to positive people-treatment and honor". Dr. Rivers and his team have collaborated with Dr. Bayer, CEO Civility Experts Worldwide and her team – recognized around the world as the leading experts on civility – to create a solution for interrupting the incivility and shifting uncivil discourse going on in our societies. "The time for talking about solutions and thinking about how we should be kinder and more civil is passed. It's time for leadership, it's time for change, and we need to act", asserts Dr. Bayer. "The contributors to the Face of Civility books are action-takers, change-makers, and social architects who are making the world a better place".
